

DR ANDRÉ ROSE

DEPUTY DIRECTOR

André Rose is a specialist public health medicine physician.

He is the past president of the Public Health Association of South Africa.

He has worked in various government departments, and public health and not for profit organisations in various public health roles. He was responsible for the roll out of the COVID-19 vaccine in the Northern Cape, South Africa.

He has experience in health systems strengthening, epidemiology, radiation protection, occupational health and safety, health management, social justice advocacy, academia (peer reviewed publication, teaching, post-graduate supervision, curriculum design, and administration), and transdisciplinary research. He is an artist and integrates his art into his public health practice.

CONTACT

@ andre.rose@mrc.ac.za